

TIES Session 2010

“Functional Conversations: Interacting with Children Who Are Deafblind or Have Multiple Disabilities”

Lyn Ayer, PhD, Director, Deafblind Project

Following is some information that were not handouts, but were a part of the presentation that might help a person access information.

The DVD I used:

Tactile Learning Strategies: Interacting with children who have visual impairments and multiple disabilities (English and Spanish) by Deborah Chen and June E. Downing. It also has an accompanying manual. Available at American Foundation for the Blind: www.afb.org; Also on Amazon -- including new and used copies.

The book I recommended:

Remarkable Conversations: A guide to developing meaningful communication with children and young adults who are deafblind: (Eds. Barbara Miles and Marianne Riggio). I looked on Amazon and it is currently unavailable there --- but I am sure that Perkins School for the Blind's bookstore will have copies.
